

	(e)	(i)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> although <code>order2</code> is an object of the <code>SitIn</code> class, in this situation, it is being indexed as an element of the <code>orderList</code> array which is of type <code>Order</code> as the <code>Order</code> class does not have an <code>addExtraItem()</code> method, the subclass method is not accessible 	2	Award 1 mark for class of <code>objectList[1]</code> being <code>Order</code> object not a <code>SitIn</code> object. Award 1 mark for <code>Order</code> class not being able to access <code>addExtraItem()</code> method belonging to the <code>SitIn</code> subclass.
--	-----	-----	-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	---	-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------