

1. An online version of a board game is being developed where the wording in each square on the game board is stored as a node in a linked list. The layout of the game board is shown below.

State the type of linked list that should be used. Justify your answer.