1. Two's complement can be used to represent positive and negative integers.

   State the range of denary values that can be represented using 32-bit two's complement.

   2