| | | (iv) | HTML:
The data would be displayed using the HTML SELECT element. The individual models within the statement would be the values of the HTML option element.

PHP:
A while loop would be used with the PHP mysqli_fetch_array() function to process each individual row of the array containing the query results and the PHP echo statement would be used to display the individual models. | 2 | Award 1 mark for explanation of how relevant HTML elements would be used.

Award 1 mark for explanation how relevant PHP constructs and functions would be used. |